Leading Bottled Water Company Quenches Thirst for Better Fleet Management

Corcentric helps major beverage company get smart about leasing assets with Fleet Analytics and Fleet Financing solutions.

THE CHALLENGE

One of the biggest beverage companies in North America operates a large fleet of vehicles ranging from tanker trucks to mid-size delivery trucks. Managing such a sizeable fleet, as efficiently as possible, is no small undertaking.

The company was in search of a partner that could help with fleet leasing. They needed a solution that would improve its lease structure from start to finish, with the goal of lowering their monthly costs and avoiding large TRAC values.

Ultimately, it was Corcentric that checked all the boxes when it came to meeting the company's leasing expectations.

“This was a major accomplishment for us as a company and has allowed us to reduce our overall fleet and manage our spare ratio better than ever.”

THE SOLUTION

The well-known beverage company utilizes Corcentric Fleet Analytics and Fleet Financing. These tools focus on tracking their assets' fixed costs, fuel costs, maintenance and repair costs, and asset utilization to understand fleet needs and maximize efficiency.

One of the biggest benefits they have realized from these solutions is the Asset Intensity Report that Corcentric helped them build.

“The report shows us how many trucks we have in our fleet versus how many are routed for deliveries,” says the company's Senior Manager of National Fleet Operations. “This was a major accomplishment for us as a company and has allowed us to reduce our overall fleet and manage our spare ratio better than ever.”
