

9 ways Managed AR helps businesses simplify operations and drive growth

1

Get paid faster

Managed AR providers decrease days sales outstanding (DSO) so you get paid on time, every time.

Increase cash flow

What if during times of economic uncertainty, your business could thrive, not just survive? Managed AR solutions free up working capital so you have cash for immediate use, as well as peace of mind.

Longer payment terms

Customers may need more time to pay you, and that's ok. Managed AR providers can fund the difference between invoice payment and customer remittance, on time, leaving your cash flow unaffected and you worry-free.

Better customer experience

No two customers are the same; they each have different needs when it comes to their preferred invoice format and payment method, and a managed AR solution can meet and sometimes exceed those expectations.

5

Reduce overhead

No need to stress about the costs associated with back office and IT teams. A managed AR provider takes on the burden of processing, applying for, and collecting payments.

Speed up digitization

Implementing a managed AR solution means your business has access to advanced technologies like machine learning and artificial intelligence that give you a competitive edge and enable more efficient processes.

7

Improve visibility

When you digitize your receivables, you can instantly access the information you need to forecast spend, identify customer trends, and properly manage your cash.

8

Boost your staff

Managed AR providers act as an extension of your business, filling in resource gaps and taking on labor-intensive tasks so your staff can focus on more strategic work.

9

Instant scalability

Scale your operations up or down at a moment's notice without worrying about staffing and overhead expenses. Managed AR has you covered and keeps you agile.
